

ABSTRACT

[0025] Protective boot comprising bellows and a bushing, in particular for power transmission systems in a vehicle. The bellows and the bushing are so constructed and connected to one another that their connection remains tight independent of loading and long-term influences.